

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides dilator and insertion sheath assembly having penetration locators. In particular, at least one inlet port resides on the insertion sheath and is in fluid communication with a drip hole to provide penetration indication to a user.